

Transgender people face discrimination and violence throughout society; from their family growing up, in school, at work, by homeless shelters, by doctors, in emergency rooms, before judges, by landlords, and even police officers. In comparison to the U.S. general population, the disparities are striking, especially in the areas of unemployment, poverty, and health. Here is a snapshot:

-  1 in 12 have been kicked out of the house due to their gender identity.
-  19% of Black transwomen are living with HIV.
-  17% leave K-12 schooling due to severe mistreatment.
-  1 in 4 experience verbal, physical, or sexual harassment in college or vocational school.
-  32% limit food and water intake to avoid needing to use the bathroom.
